2022 Annual Refresher Training Wraps-Up

MSHA Required Annual Refresher Training Successful

The 2022 Annual Refresher Training has been completed. It takes a combined effort of many people to put on this month-long MSHA requirement. Safety Clerk Cindy Sims organized the multi-day training that was held at the Simpson Center. Cindy is credited for going the extra mile on the lunches this year. She worked hard to bring some variety and quality lunches for the training days. Each day over 100 employees were fed.

A group of trainers collaborated on the material for this year's ART. Brant Paulick taught the Critical Risk Management class, pictured below. Part one was in regards to LOTOTO. He explained how the traditional Lock Out/Tag Out/ Try Out (LOTOTO) safety practice overlooks one important part: The fact that during the Lock Out, energy cannot be locked out. Therefore, employees are encouraged to step back for two minutes, says Brant, and make sure that all of the energy sources have been identified and isolated, not just the obvious ones. Part two of Brant's class was on Critical Risk Management. CRM is a process in place that strictly looks at preventing fatal accidents from a proactive approach. The causes of fatal accidents have been investigated down to the smallest details. These details are used to build controls that are put in place beforehand. "Preventive controls stop an accident from happening—mitigating lessens the impact. We used car seat belts for an example. They don't stop the crash from happening but they lessen the chance that it'll be fatal. We want to put our biggest focus on stopping the car from crashing, not catching you after you crash. That's what were trying to accomplish with CRM," notes Brant.

Nicole Peters, Mike Peterson, and Heike Martin taught the Health and Safety Standards as well as Industrial Health class. Topics covered in that class were HazCom, updated health and safety standards, electrical storms and radio protocols, and industrial hygiene and occupational hygiene.

The Escape/Fire Fighting and Explosives class was taught by Bobby Murray (pictured below), Jim Miller, and Robert Flynn. The blasting portion of the class taught about blasting items, dangers of those items, radio etiquette at blast time and what to do if blasting items are found. During the fire and escape portion of the class discussed muster points, escape ways, fire suppression, fire classes, extinguisher types and how to use them, and putting out a fire with the Bullex machine.

John Burton taught the class focused on the Miners Rights and Responsibilities along with First Aid/CPR. The miners were refreshed on the rights afforded to them by the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977, as well as the responsibilities they hold. John then covered the contents of the first aid kits and the proper use of some of the contents. He taught the groups how to tie and improvise a tourniquet.

The Transportation and Communication class was taught by Darrell McMillan, Troy Davis and Tony Philips.

Prizes were given out in the form of drawings. Tickets were given out to participants in the classes. The tickets were dropped into jars of prizes. Daily drawings of Fitbits, Shoshone gas cards, BS Beef packages, General Store cards, Hardware Store cards, and massages all worth $100 were given away. Grand prize winners will receive $1000 towards a gun built by Ace Rifles or tires, a large Yeti cooler, and a medium Yeti cooler.

Sunnyside Museum Berg House Update

Greetings from the Sunnyside Museum:

Two years ago, we started the near impossible project of moving a historic house from Round Mountain to the lot next to our museum in Carvers. The house was built by William H. Berg in 1914. He made all of the blocks himself and his brother-in-law, Dan Thomas did the finish work inside.

We're absolutely sure that the thought of moving this house never entered Will's mind as he built it. That is evident in the level of difficulty this project proved to be.

The contractor we chose for this project has a never-give-up attitude that was surely needed. Ralph Lynn, from Fallon was that guy.

The move went well. A foundation was built to set it on, and it's been sitting perched on the foundation for quite some time. Due to some unexpected issues, the contractor was not able to get to it right away.

But, as of January 13, the house is on its forever foundation. Because the floor is not attached to the walls, columns had to be built underneath the house.

With this feat completed, our goal moving forward includes adding the front porch back on and total restoration of the house. We've applied for two grants in order to reach this goal.

Another goal is to create a replica of the bottle cellar that Will Berg built next to the house in Round Mountain. The original cellar was used to store food that was canned during the summer to get the family through the winter.

Keep watch for improvements as you drive by and hopefully by this summer it will open to be included in our tours.

Our next open houses are February 19, March 19, and April 16. Come visit and see some of Smoky Valley's history.

We have a Facebook page and a website.

RM Students Perform Well in District Spelling Bees

The students of Round Mountain Schools showed up in a big way in the recent Nye County School District's Spelling Bee. In January, classroom and school spelling bees were held at schools throughout the district. Winners were determined and began preparing for the district spelling bee.

On February 3, the NCS D Elementary Spelling Bee was held in Pahrump as well as virtually in Tonopah and Round Mountain. The finalists in each grade were present and battled for the top spots. On February 10, the NCS D Middle School Spelling Bee was held in the same fashion.

The National Spelling Bee hosted by Scripps is a 100-year contest. National finalists compete in Washington DC for top prizes. According to Scripps, the purpose of spelling bees is to help students improve their spelling, increase their vocabularies, learn concepts, and develop correct English usage that will help them all their lives.

For most of the Round Mountain students, this was the first spelling bee they ever participated in. Nervous excitement filled the air as the students awaited the competitions. When all the dust of the contests cleared, Round Mountain walked away with trophies in all five categories.

Eighth grade competitor Elizabeth Wolf said it was fun to watch her school mates succeed in the contest. "The scariest part was not knowing what word I was going get," she said. Elizabeth said she prepared for the bee by looking over the list of over 500 words. Seventh grade competitor and district runner-up said she was nervous to stand up in front of the camera and spell. She said she studied with her mom to prepare for the bee. Kaitlynn's classmate Billy Ortiz said he's a good speller because he is able to lock words in his brain once he spells them. He said it was challenging to spell the words in the bee without being able to write them down.

Lady Knights 3rd Place State Academic Team Champions

The Nevada Interscholastic Activities Association, NIAA, is the non-profit governing body of high school sports in Nevada. Each year NIAA awards teams for the highest grade point average as Academic Team Champions in each athletic division.

The team grade point average is determined by taking the individual unweighted GPA's of varsity team members from the last semester and then computing an overall average.

According to the NIAA, they consider this academic award to be equal to an athletic championship award. "As the NIAA's coaches and administrators always stress, the participants are students first, then athletes," states an NIAA press release.

Round Mountain High School's Lady Knights 2022 basketball team placed 3rd in the state for Academic Champions behind 2nd place Smith Valley High School and 1st place Sage Ridge School of Reno.

Step into the RMHS gymnasium and notice the many Academic Team Champion banners. To play sports, eligibility is required for all students. The Lady Knights' overall grade point average last semester was 3.64, ranking them third highest in the 1A division in the state.

"I think this award is amazing! It's a huge accomplishment to be able to maintain our grades while having such a busy basketball season. I'm very proud of all the girls for working so hard both on the basketball court and in the class." ~McKenna Harwood, Senior

"Winning the academic state championship award is a great accomplishment for not only our lady knights basketball team, but for all of us individually. We all have worked very hard this year at school and on the court, getting this award shows us that all of our hard work pays off. Many of us have things like extracurricular activities and jobs to attend while being at school and playing basketball. But we are a very determined team and getting this award doesn't surprise me one bit." ~Kellee Berg, Junior

"The Round Mountain varsity girls have had a very successful season both on and off the court. With five girls on the team having a 4.0 GPA, they were able to finish 3rd in the Academic State Championship for 1A. We are very proud of your accomplishments, ladies." ~Athletic Director Jake Topholm

What an outstanding achievement for this Lady Knights team! I hit the mark when I told them I had the best at RMHS on this year's team. It is impressive for them to be able to maintain the 3rd highest GPA of all the teams while remaining dedicated to the demanding schedule of basketball. Coach McCoy and I could not be any prouder of the scholastic excellence our team has accomplished. They are a fine example of what can exist when an individual holds herself to high standards and then brings that greatness to a team. ~Coach LaWayne Harwood

I know what our Lady Knights basketball team is capable of, we all worked very hard for what we want and this award just shows that we can do anything we put our minds to. ~Junior Kellee Berg
